Jaunt Through B.C. Another Remarkable Flow of Gas.

It was our good fortune to be able to attend the Southern Alberta Press Convention held this year at Nelson, B.C., on July 26 and 27. The event was a memorable one for us, as it gave the first opportunity we had ever had of seeing first-hand the much advertised country of British Columbia.

The journey through the Crow's Nest Pass takes one past Frank, now almost wholly deserted. As one observes the huge mountain overhanging this scattered town he can only marvel at the consummate cohesiveness which the inhabitants must have shown in daily, hourly, leaving the danger which everyone knew existed.

Frank, however, is not the only town that has seen its inhabitants flee. Owing sometimes to the decadence of lumbering, sometimes to a slump in mining, there are numerous towns scattered along the route of the C. P. R. railway that give strong evidence of the migrating propensities of its residents. Towns there are, however, which have lost their lumbering or mining population, have Phoenix-like, arisen from their ashes and are now engaged in re-building upon a new industry, an industry which the majority firmly believe is to be the staple one of British Columbia.

Fruit culture is as yet in its youngest years but experiments have already proven the wisdom of the residents in taking it up. The Review saw trees laden with apples, others bearing to the ground under their lucious and heavy load of cherries. Small fruits, too, were there in abundance. This interesting sight was all the more remarkable as one observed the quality and nature of the soil. Fruit tracts apparently are to be obtained everywhere and anywhere. Stakes could be seen sticking from out of swamps, where were placed upon banks that went downward at a fearful acute angle, making one marvel at the fertility of the soil, who had not nerve and daring to make such a dangerous climb—and still more at the man who habitually characterized them as fruit tracts. To us, fresh from the "hills" of the prairie, the task of clearing rock and huge stumps of trees seemed nothing less than a colossal one to undertake. But the Columbians have done it, and many others are now reaping their reward in yearly harvests of golden fruit.

The trip that the Press representative took up the Kootenay lakes in the C.P.R.'s splendidly-appointed lake steamer, the "Kuskoowak," was one well-rewarded for its rugged beauty. Every throb of the engine seemed to unfold something new. Fruit ranches, everyone of which possesses its gasoline launch, hang from the shore on either side, and sheltered as they are by the mountains background they present a very picturesque spectacle. And there, small settlements, with church, school, and the inevitable hotel, are situated. There are, however, one or two small towns that during the mining boom were places of considerable importance. Chief among these, perhaps, is the town of Kaslo. Pretty situated among the slopes of the mountain it is gaining considerable prominence by reason of the progressive strides which its inhabitants have made in the growth of fruit. The soil is rich, extremely so, the growth is rapid, and the town is ideal in its location. The residents are hospitable to a degree and to visitors extremely cordial. Many prairie people have retired here, and live happy and healthy lives tending their small fruit tracts. Choice land can be obtained hereabouts at a fairly reasonable figure, from $50 up, and if the question was put we saw no other spot that we would more strongly recommend to the jaded city man or the retired farmer. The lake affords splendid opportunities for fishing, whilst away back in the mountain big game can still be obtained.

We might go on for hours, and fill columns, describing the beauties and glories of Nelson—the town that has been so aptly named "The Venice of British Columbia." We would like to tell of the beautiful scenery along the Arrow lakes, the inconceivable range of the Selkirk and Rockies, of the glaciers, the cascades, the falls and rapids. Hence, however, together with lack of ability prevents this.

In conclusion, we might say this—Buy no fruit land except from a reputable person, or only after a personal inspection.

Possibly some have noticed that we have taken out an advertisement respecting fruit land in B.C. This we did because we are not quite satisfied either with the land which we have seen personally, or the person that has it for sale.

The North-West Drilling Co., which is engaged in boring operations for the Canadian Western Heat, Light and Fuel Co. at Bow Island, were again very successful last week with wells Nos. 11 and 13. The former well they drilled in on Thursday, the flow registering between six and seven million feet every twenty-four hours. No. 13 was finished Friday. Work upon this had to be suspended owing to the tremendous pressure encountered, and consequently the full volume of gas could not be reached. A flow, however, of eighteen million feet, we understand, was recorded. Although repeated attempts were made the efforts of the drillers to reach the bottom strata were quite useless, the enormous pressure from the gas forcing back the tools to the top every time. It is calculated that had they been able to have drilled another few feet they would have broken all records, and quite possibly would have secured a flow of natural gas running close to fifty or sixty million feet.

Baseball

A very interesting game of ball was held on Monday night in Bow Island between the local Juniors and Bowden 9-10. B. L. Jamieson satisfactorily umpired the game. The score was 6-4. Line-up:

BOW ISLAND vs. TABER.
For the Championship of Southern Alberta.

The best ball game of the year will be seen today on the diamond at Bow Island, when the Taber and local teams meet to play their first home and home match for the championship of Southern Alberta. Flashed with great expectations, but we believe we can confidently leave it to our local players to give the visitors a rude alert. Every resident should turn out to this game, and for once in their lives let the part of an enthusiastic fan.

Attractions of the Spring and Summer Sunshades

What Is New In Tub Frocks

many size. Speaking of handles, those most approved this spring are of wood carved to represent animals and birds and tinted with the natural colorings. These parash handles are very smart if a bit heavy.

Now that lattaes grow and hats are so much worn the woman who knows right up to the minute in her style will have a sunshade of lattaes to match her suit or her chapeau. For use with tailored suits, the most successful of the parash is a parash of rich, dark purple silk, the long handle of which is tipped with an enormous smutshy. Lovely lingeis sunshades for carriage and garden party wear to accompany summer frocks are to be seen on every hand. Two of these lingeis models are among the illustrations. One of white lattaes is overlaid with embroidered cream tulle. The other of princess lace is the attractive edge of the parash. The second sunshade is of white embroidered linen. Appose of lines of lattaes is a very new model which any girl clever with her needle may copy. In each panel of the parash is worked a flut of butterflies in white mercerized cotton. These are embroidered in a raised satin stitch for the bodies of the insect, and a narrow trailing line of lattaes in the wings. The wings are simulated by lines of eyelets such as are used in mndira work. It would probably be more effective to have the white butterfly done in velvet ladder work.

For the girl who likes more startling effects the butterfly could be worked

nothing new in line, but there are many novel trimming touches on the simpler sort of wash frocks. The skirts have a little more fullness, but the skirt of the sheer summer frock always is fuller than the skirt of a wash frock. One of the new tub frocks shows a slightly raised satin stitch for the bodies of the insect, and a narrow trailing line of lattaes in the wings. The wings are simulated by lines of eyelets such as are used in mndira work. It would probably be more effective to have the white butterfly done in velvet ladder work.

Long lines of trimmings are much to evidence on linen, gingham and sheer cotton frocks, and buttons are not down the middle front or side of the skirt, and there are innumerable padded arrangements that add to the attraction of a morning gown.

The waist line on most of the new models is a natural one, but there are many charming frocks with slightly raised waists. The former line is the newer. Sleeves are usually short with wide bands of a turned back cuff, although an occasional long sleeve with a long square neck finished just below the throat line or a slight V shape cut with color or fabric finish is customary. Many of the little tub frocks are that devoid of trimming other than the lattaes. The skirt of a tub frock is of the half line checked fabric combined with sheer white hemstitched lawn.

Beams out together with heading and very much the daintiness of wash frocks, and pipings of wash tulle, and the skirt is in the same style as effective upon colored wash materials. The shoulder yoke with trimming extending down the center of the sleeve is again a favorite waist arrangement, and lines of tiny white pearl buttons put on with colored thread are one of the newest touches seen on tub frocks.

GETTING OUT LAST SUMMER'S CLOTHING

Every Garment That Contains Wool Should Be Well Aired

NOW is the time when the housewife will do well to take down her parking boxes, open the old chests and get in readiness the linen and light wool dresses for spring wear. One of the first necessities is the airing of the summer clothes. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The colored gingham may be less than the summer clothes. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity.

This does not require much rubbing. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity.

Do not come in good, clear water, in which there is a handful of salt. Do not hang in the sun, as this fades the material quickly. Your dainties should be put in the same manner, but never rubbed on a board, as it is sure to tear them, and fine clothing must be carefully handled if it is to last any length of time. The airing of the summer clothes is the first necessity.

TO AVOID SCORCHING

MANY housekeepers do not know that there is a simple way to prevent potatoes from burning and sticking to the bottom of the pot. An inverted pie pan placed in the bottom of the pot, avoids scorching potatoes. The water and empty space between the pan and the potatoes. This also prevents the water from cleaning the pot easier, as no scorching parts of potatoes are left to be scoured out.

Beauty In The Home

IT is a mere commonplace to say that it is the duty of every woman to make herself at all times as attractive as she can. This does not mean that she must make the best of herself on occasions, but every day as well. The woman who values the opinion and affection of her family and intimates will remember that even if "beauty be but skin deep" (rather an old fashioned idea) the skin is quite an important part of her anatomy.

Remember, dear girls, if you are feeling sore about your brother's neglect, does he ever see you at your best as he does other girls?

Does he see you with your hair dressed prettily and neatly every day or just "dressed up" for breakfast and rough and untidy for dinner, as if you were thrown off your hair?

Does he see you in a dainty spotless blouse in the morning, or wearing out some old "tee" that makes you look four worst?

You may seem an unkind thing to tell you, but these bits of omission and commission do make a great deal of difference in the estimation in which the average man holds his womanfolk. If you think it does not matter to look well in your brother's eyes, you are making a greater mistake as regards your husband, with more serious consequences.

You blame a certain member of your family for that expression of distaste when you allow him to see you looking a "perfect fright," that form of opprobrium being, in your case, quite unnecessary. But think, is it not a sure assurance of a lapse of loving thought, on your part?

If you let your sister, brother, mother and husband know that you do not consider them worth the trouble of "dressing up" for, can you wonder if they unconsciously resent it?

Have you quite as much regard for your dearest friends as you have for the least lamenable carelessness in dress, in their stockings, in their hair? You may recover in an instant, but certainly your friendship suffers a severe shock.

Would you be quite as willing to go out walking with your brother who is carelessly shaved and wearing a hat that is not clean either, as you would with him?

But having duly shuddered at the impossible idea, be very careful that the same act is not done again.

A Health Hint

EAT three simple meals a day and masticate each bit of food thoroughly. Give up snacks between meals and late suppers. Seventy per cent of the ill health people suffer from is due to neglect of this hygienic principle.

Take exercise every day equivalent to regular hours of sleep. Try to get to bed at nine or ten o'clock.

Exercise twice a day and night. No one can keep well who sleeps with closed windows, lives in stuffy rooms and goes to bed at nine.

If you have got into the habit of irregular hours of sleep, try to get to bed at nine or ten o'clock.

MADE FROM GRANDMOTHER'S GOWN

THIS is certainly a most amusing affair and will repay a hostess for the trouble of arranging for it. But it is a successful business for the labor that proceeds on an event should never be lost into the oblivion of the past. There must be an equal number of men and women to make a party.

It is the invitation to the girls to make a sample of the gown which they will wear, and to the men the invitation to make a sample of the necktie, these to be sent in advance to the hostess.

The sample is a gown mounted on "sample" cards and the necktie is the most in the way partners are found for the progressive conversation which will be passed, and the men are to write descriptions of the gown the samples of which will be sent to their lot, and the girls are to write about the tie, material, style, etc. The minutes will be given to these descriptions, and then the partners will be read aloud. The prizes are to be sample packages of any product the hostess may select.

The refreshments are to be novel, inasmuch as the hostess will have the tea and coffee made by a "demonstrator" (one of the party who has been selected) and to be served in boxes marked "sample." There will be sandwiches of various kinds, olives, salad, small cakes, etc.

The contents of the boxes will be spread upon the table, and each one to be supplied with all the requisites in the way of dishes.

While at the table the hostess is to be suddenly darkened and little answers containing a mixture of chopped nuts, raisins and crackers are to be passed and eaten. When the lights are turned on, the hostess is to be asked to pass the box, and the one nearest correct being given a "sample" card of chocolate.

The contents of the boxes will be spread upon the table, and each one to be supplied with all the requisites in the way of dishes.

While at the table the hostess is to be suddenly darkened and little answers containing a mixture of chopped nuts, raisins and crackers are to be passed and eaten. When the lights are turned on, the hostess is to be asked to pass the box, and the one nearest correct being given a "sample" card of chocolate.

PENCIL LEASHING

YV have grown used to having a pad on the telephone to which a pencil is attached for the purpose of writing down the names of the callers. This consists of a leather pad with a pencil attached to it by a string.

Under which the bridge table is easily slipped for freer movement. At the top of the pad is a brass or metal clip, which is used to hold the pencil in place.

It is so flexible that it can be used in any angle, yet it will hold its place when not needed. Any one who knows the trick pencil can be used in any angle, yet it will hold its place when not needed.

Another novelty for a hostess who entertains much at cards is a small silver pencil holder, which is shaped like a ring and can be attached to the finger of the hand which holds the pencil.

It is a very handy device, and is a new pencil which points back or becomes blunted.

THE LATEST THING IN DEBBY HATS

With derby hat fashioned very much after the shape of a man's headgear, this style has been a favorite one of the winter, but now that spring days are with us the derby is appearing in new, and nothing could be smarter for as all round hat than the one little shown, with the "stickup" features.
